Stubbornly Entente Forces Smash
Ahead, Working Way Through
Last Line of Teutonic Defenses
On Peronne-Bapaume Front

TWO BIG SUCCESSES
SCORED BY BRITISH

There is Lull Along Other Sections of Western Front On Account of Heavy Rains, While in East Bulgars Are Repulsed

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS

British score two advances, one southerly from Le Barre, the other east from Les Bouffes, bringing them close to the Peronne-Bapaume highway.

The French make slight advance east between Pregicourt and Morval, in cooperation with the British.

Vienna reports a Bulgarian defeat before Hermannstadt, in Transylvania.

Serbian meet and repulse four Bulgarian attacks on their section of the Macedonian front.

Rains along western front are general and operations are hampered.

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

LONDON, September 30.—Specially the Allies are working their way through the last lines of German defense on the Peronne-Bapaume front, notable gains being made yesterday in Piracy by both the British and French.

The Germans have been making a more than usual strenuous resistance and at one point on the new British front, east of Les Bouffes, the struggle was a hand-to-hand one, the lines swinging back and forth, with the trenches being battered for changing hands repeatedly during the day. Here a Scottish regiment came to grips with a strong detachment of Hessians, each side fighting with the utmost savagery with the bayonet, grenade and hand-grenade. Last night found the Scots in possession of the corpse-strewn section. British score two successes.

The British scored two successes. One attack was launched from before Le Barre, the British advancing five hundred yards, taking a series of trenches and a number of prisoners. The other advance, the more strategically important, was the one made east from Les Bouffes, where the German lines were pierced for a depth of six hundred yards, bringing the British close to the Peronne-Bapaume highway and starting the formation of a German salient, resting upon Pregicourt. This point threatens to become another Comblain for the Germans, although by no means so highly fortified nor important and the threat of its encirclement may force another retirement for the strengthening of the line.

The French are cooperating with the British at this point and are driving north to meet their allies, operating from Rancourt. They are also pushing their line to the north of Pregicourt, keeping in alignment with the British advance from Les Bouffes.

Lull is Noted Elsewhere

Elsewhere along the western front there is a lull, heavy rains hampering the operations of the Allies.

On the Macedonian front the main activities were on the part of the Bulgarians, who launched a series of four attacks upon the Serbian line. Each attack was repulsed.

In the Transylvania section, according to Austrian reports, the Hungarians, operating from Hermannstadt, have been driven back by the Austrians, who have regained the heights commanding the city.

According to cabled versions here of the speech of the German chancellor in the Reichstag yesterday, von Bethmann-Hollweg told the members that the allies cannot break the German line on the Somme front. He made a similar statement regarding the campaign on the eastern front.

PARKER WILL NOT SUPPORT WILSON

Progressive Candidate For Vice-Presidency Willing To Make Speeches Attacking Hughes

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

NEW ORLEANS, September 30.—John M. Parker, the Progressive nominee for vice-president, in an announcement made here yesterday, emphatically denied that he had written President Wilson, offering to speak for his reelection.

What the Progressive candidate said, according to the statement, is that he would take the stump as a Progressive and follow the campaign tour recently made by Hughes, the Republican candidate and oppose the latter's campaign speeches. This course, he admitted, would be favorable to Wilson.

The message which Parker sent the President stated that he would speak in Ohio, New York and New Jersey in favor of the Democratic presidential candidate.

The offer of Parker, which was supposed to favor Wilson, was accepted.

WARSHIPS CAPTURED BY GREEK REBELS

Hydra Surrenders and Joins Fleet of Entente Allies

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

PIRAEUS, Greece, September 29.—The Greek warship Hydra today passed into the hands of the revolutionists. The defection of the naval men has caused great excitement not only at this port but throughout Greece.

After the ship had been surrendered to a party in civilian attire it was taken to Salamis Bay and turned over to the fleet of the Entente Allies stationed there. The commander of the Hydra is known to be a supporter of ex-Premier Venizelos.

A report that the Greek battleship Kilia, formerly the United States warship Idaho and later sold to the Greek government, has also gone over, with officers and crew, to the revolutionists, is denied from Athens.

ORIENTAL QUESTIONS INTEREST MISSIONARIES

The delegates voted to ask the American government to invite China and Japan to appoint similar commissions to confer with the Americans, that a basis of understanding for future diplomacy might be amicably arrived at.

NEGROES LYNCHED BY ENRAGED MOB

Prisoners Recaptured After Killing Warden in Oklahoma Jail Break

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

NOWATA, Oklahoma, September 30.—After a desperate fight in which the deputy warden was killed, three negroes yesterday succeeded in escaping from the county jail.

After the jail break the convicts were followed by an enraged mob and two of them were captured on the outskirts of the city. With little ceremony they were taken into the garden of a minister and preparations made to hang them from a tree. One of the men was already dangling from the branch of a tree when the minister appeared and after arranging the crowd, succeeded in cutting him down and taking the prisoner back to the jail.

In a short time, however, the mob reassembled before the jail and after battering down the doors and dragging the two men from their cells lynched them in the courtyard of the jail. One was hung from a lamp post and the other from a tree.

The third prisoner escaped and is still at large.

SUBMARINE BREMEN SIGHTED ONCE MORE

Fishermen Report Seeing Strange Craft in Long Island

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

WESTERLY, Rhode Island, September 30.—According to several Pleasant-view fishermen, a large submarine, believed to be the German undersea freighter Bremen, was seen through powerful binoculars last evening proceeding in the direction of New London.

The strange craft, they said, had no flag flying, but a white mast light was observed above the green of the boat. The ship was not accompanied by any other vessel, they say, and that it was different in shape from the American type of submarines, with which they are familiar.

The lights seen, it is believed, were those of the tug that has been on the lookout for the German submarine for some time.

LIFE PRESERVER IS FOUND

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

PORTLAND, Maine, September 30.—According to information received here last night, a life preserver bearing the name "Bremen" and the imperial crown of the German empire was found on the beach at Cape Elizabeth. The life preserver, which was new and not waterlogged, was covered with oil stains. It is believed here that the supposed waif from the sea is a hoax perpetrated by a practical joker.

Agents of the Eastern Forwarding company, who have been expecting the Bremen to dock at New London, Connecticut, are disposed to place no credit in the story that the life preserver was part of the equipment of the German undersea freighter.

Although it was reported that the Bremen had been sighted by Rhode Island fishermen, the agents of the company at New London admit that they had not received any advice that the submarine had entered the Long Island sound. According to them, the Bremen has not yet been reported as sighted.

Von Bethmann-Hollweg Declares Before Reichstag Empire of Kaiser Cannot Lose

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

LONG BRANCH, September 30.—President Wilson yesterday received what he termed an American telegram from James O'Leary, president of the American Truth Society, accusing him of being pro-British in his attitude towards the belligerents of Europe.

The President was plainly indignant at the message and expressed himself vigorously in an answer to O'Leary in which he said:

"I should feel deeply mortified if you or anybody like you should vote for me. As you no doubt, in virtue of your position, have access to many disloyal Americans, I wish you would convey this message to them."

It was afterwards stated by a number of Washington officials, who are visiting the summer capital, that the President felt the insult deeply and was prompted to couch his answer in even stronger language.

HARVEST IS ASSURANCE OF GREAT FOOD SUPPLY

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

BERLIN, September 30.—Declaring that Germany would continue to fight until victory was won and that the country was in a position to maintain the struggle until the desired consummation, Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg delivered an important speech in the Reichstag yesterday. The address was marked by a bitter denunciation of Great Britain and her aims, which are to crush and dismember the German Empire.

The imperial chancellor prophesied that the sacrifices Germans are now making for the Fatherland are not made in vain, each day bringing appreciably nearer the dawn of a victorious peace, when Germany will stand triumphant before the world, her claims vindicated and her ideals attained.

Germany, he said, cannot be starved out, as the British hope. The harvest now garnered makes it certain that there will be no actual shortage of food throughout the winter and places Germany in a position of independence of all outside food sources. While extreme care and prudence continue to be necessary, no danger of famine exists.

He made a bitter attack on Britain and British influence in the great war, declaring that the British are breaking international laws one after the other and are resorting to any trickery and stratagem to secure their ends. He referred to Britain as Germany's most egotistical, vilest and most obstinate enemy.

"The British," he said, "want to destroy our national life. Germany, which England wants to lie at her feet, is a country without military defense, a country crushed economically. She is boycotted by the entire world and sentenced to lasting infamy if England has her way. The German statesman who would refrain from using against this enemy every proper means of warfare which is apt to shorten the war deserved to be hanged."

"We will win," he asserted amid cheers from the assembled members.

"The nation is ready for any sacrifice which the people believe is an assurance of victory."

"Germany will not be permitted to think of peace while her house is burning. She must extinguish the fire."

The speech of the imperial chancellor has received by no means a unanimous approval from the German press. While the papers unite in praising the chief foe of Germany, criticisms are made in some quarters that the speech lacks that degree of definiteness which the gravity of the hour demands. The general consensus of opinion is that the speaker was under such a restraint that he could not make clear-cut statements regarding many of the phases of the war situation.

MORE NEWS CARTS MAY DOT HONOLULU STREETS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

Honolulu will soon have as many news carts in proportion to its population as the big cities in the mainland. Since the A. B. Arleigh company asked for a permit from the board of supervisors to place carts in the streets, other newsdealers have asked for a similar privilege.

The latest applicant is the Hawaiian News company, which yesterday filed an application with the board for permission to place a news cart in the street. The other applicant was Wall, Nichols & Co.

Just what action will be taken by the board of supervisors is problematic, but it is thought that, as these carts are a distinct convenience to the city and especially to tourists, the permits will be granted.

HAWAIIAN BUILDING AT BIG EXPOSITION WILL BE PRESERVED

Secretary of Territory Has Plan To Keep It Standing With Famous Painted Fish

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

W. W. Thayer, who has just returned from the mainland after a prolonged trip, reported to the promotion committee yesterday, at a regular meeting held in the chamber of commerce rooms, that the Hawaiian building at the San Francisco Exposition grounds would become a permanent feature of the Bay City.

While in San Francisco Thayer visited the building and found that, despite its exposed location, it was in excellent condition. The plants and other flowers were in a healthy state and, with certain improvements to protect the building from the weather, it would last indefinitely.

According to the plans of the league for the preservation of buildings, it is proposed to maintain the California building, the Art Palace and the Hawaiian building as permanent exhibit centers.

Thayer announced that he would make an effort to have the next legislature pass a bill turning the building over to the San Francisco organization, and that an effort would be made to obtain an appropriation of seventy-five dollars a month to provide suitable tanks and warm water for a perpetual display of Hawaii's "painted" fish.

The preservation league proposes to use the building as an aquarium, and fish from all parts of the Pacific will be kept on display. The Hawaiian fish will have to be renewed monthly, and the cost of keeping the water warm and transporting the fish to the mainland will involve an expense to Hawaii of seventy-five dollars a month.

At present there is nothing on the building to indicate that it is to be the gift of Hawaii, but the committee in charge assured Thayer that a bronze tablet would be placed on the front of the building with a suitable inscription.

The maintaining of Hawaii's beautifully colored fish in the aquarium, said Thayer, will be one of the best advertising mediums yet launched by the Islands, especially as San Francisco is the gateway to Honolulu.

NEW CLEN FOUND WHICH MAY GIVE TRACE OF MURDER

Six Weeks After Butchery in Waikiki, Japanese Bride Is Victim of Chinese

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

CELESTIAL PUTS OPIUM IN RICEBOWL OF WIDOW

Brother of Tomo Emoto Tells Story Which May Lead To Solution of Crime

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles.)

Six weeks after the strange, brutal murder of a Japanese, which took place in Waikiki, on August 11, a new angle has developed and added to the mystery of that affair.

Ogawa, brother of Tomo Emoto, whose husband was killed, repeated yesterday to a representative of the Advertiser an account given him by the widow of inexplicable events, which occurred for several days just prior to the tragedy.

His story tends to involve a certain Chinese. Tomo Emoto told him that on several occasions in the days just before the murder the Chinese endeavored to feed opium to her. This man, according to Ogawa, had mixed the powerful Oriental narcotic in a bowl of rice that was prepared for Tomo Emoto's supper, but in each instance she had detected its presence in the food and refused to eat it.

"Neither the narrator nor his sister attempt to explain what purpose the Chinese may have had in mind in seeking to get her under the opium's influence, though they give the inference that murder was intended."

Tomo and her husband, Hiroki Emoto, were found in their cottage in Waikiki early on the morning of August 11, the former lying on the floor with half a dozen knife wounds on her body and nearly unconscious, and the latter's dead body, terribly mutilated, lying on the bed.

The woman was removed to the hospital, and for several days her life was in doubt. There were wounds over her body, from knees to head, and the skull had been punctured by the assassin's dagger. She had recovered sufficiently now to be moved, and has been transferred from The Queen's Hospital to Lanakila Home, but visitors, save members of her family, are denied.

Murderer Not Found

The murderer, so far as known, has not been found by the police, though several arrests have been made at different times and many clues have been traced. Apparently none of these has been sufficiently definite to lead to the slayer's identity.

Ogawa, discussing his sister's story, yesterday, was inclined to think that investigation of this phase of the affair might lead to important disclosures, and said he would repeat it to the police today.

Immediately after the murder was discovered Fujimoto, a brother-in-law of Tomo Emoto, was apprehended under strong suspicion, but apparently no reliable proof of his guilt has been revealed since then.

Fujimoto Was Guardian

Fujimoto had been Tomo Emoto's guardian, and the police were informed that on many occasions he had beaten her cruelly, the mistreatment becoming so severe that others interfered and she was taken from his house. That was two or three months before the murder. A few weeks before the tragedy she married Hiroki Emoto, a chauffeur, and this aroused the fury of her former guardian.</
